

AN INSIDE LOOK AT THE UNCONSCIOUS MINDS RUNNING BOTH, THE REPUBLICAN AND DEMOCRATIC NATIONAL CONVENTIONS

BY

BARRY A. GOODFIELD, PH.D., DABFM

Last week I profiled five Republicans who spoke at the convention. This week it will be the candidates for the office of president, vice president and other political figures in their conventions. They will be analyzed, and evaluated regarding their conscious and unconscious motivations based on their Goodfield Personality Types and subsequent predictable behavior.

As much as is humanly possible this evaluation will be unbiased and will strictly adhere to the observable psychological dynamics presented by the top officials in both parties.

The Democratic National Convention
Philadelphia, July 25 - 28, 2016
Part 3

Part 1 and 2 were the profiles of Senator Bernie Sanders and former President Bill Clinton. Today I will look at the vice-presidential candidate for the democratic party.

Tim Kaine

Kaine is the eldest of three sons. Kaine grew up working in his father's ironworking shop in Kansas City. He was raised Catholic. Kaine's father is of Scottish and Irish ancestry, and his mother is of Irish descent. Kaine's family moved to Overland Park, Kansas, when Kaine was two years old, and he grew up in the Kansas City area. In 1976, he graduated from Rockhurst High School, a Jesuit all-boys preparatory school in Kansas City, Missouri. At Rockhurst, Kaine joined the debate team and was elected student body president.

Kaine received his BA in economics from the University of Missouri in 1979, completing his degree in three years and graduating summa cum laude. He was a Coro Foundation fellow in Kansas City in 1978, then attended Harvard Law School, taking a break during law school to work with the Jesuit Volunteer Corps in Honduras. Kaine worked in Honduras for nine months from 1980 to 1981, helping Jesuit missionaries who ran a Catholic school in El Progreso. While running a vocational center that taught carpentry and welding, he also helped increase the school's enrollment by recruiting local villagers. Kaine is fluent in Spanish as a result of his year in Honduras.

After returning from Honduras, Kaine met his future wife, first-year Harvard Law student Anne Holton. He graduated from Harvard Law School with a JD degree in 1983. Kaine was admitted to the Virginia Bar in 1984.

Kaine practiced law in Richmond for 17 years, specializing in fair housing law and representing clients discriminated against on the basis of race or disability.

Kaine did regular pro bono work. In 1988, Kaine started teaching legal ethics as an adjunct professor at the University of Richmond School of Law. Kaine taught at the University of Richmond for six years.

Kaine had a largely apolitical childhood, but became interested in politics in part due to the influence of his wife's family and his experience attending Richmond City council meetings. In May 1994, Kaine was elected to the city council of the independent city of Richmond. Kaine served four terms on the council, the latter two as mayor.

Kaine ran for lieutenant governor of Virginia in 2001. Kaine was inaugurated on January 12, 2002, and was sworn in by his wife Anne Holton, a state judge. She currently serves as Virginia Secretary of Education.

In 2006 Kaine was sworn in as Governor of Virginia at the colonial Capitol at Williamsburg, on January 14, 2006, the first governor since Thomas Jefferson to be inaugurated there. Kaine served as chairman of the Southern Governors' Association from 2008 to 2009.

Following the 2007 Virginia Tech shooting, in which 32 people were killed, Kaine appointed an eight-member Virginia Tech Review Panel. The commission members included specialists in psychology, law, forensics and higher education. The commission among other recommendations, proposed many mental health reforms. Based on the panel's recommendations, Kaine proposed $42 million of investment in mental health programs and reforms, included "boosting access to outpatient and emergency mental health services, increasing the number of case managers and improving monitoring of community-based providers." In April 2007, Kaine signed an executive order instructing state agencies to step up efforts to block gun sales to people involuntarily committed to inpatient and outpatient mental health treatment centers.

On July 28, 2008, Politico reported that Kaine was "very, very high" on Obama's shortlist for vice president. Obama ultimately selected Biden to become the vice-presidential nominee.

After completing his term as governor in January 2010, Kaine taught part-time at two universities.

On January 3, 2013, Kaine was sworn in for a six-year term as United States Senator of Virginia.

On July 22, 2016, he was picked to be Clinton's running mate for the election. The New York Times had previously reported that Clinton's husband, former President Bill Clinton, privately backed Kaine as his wife's vice-presidential selection, noting his domestic and national security résumé.

In terms of political ideology, FiveThirtyEight gives Kaine an average score of -37 (-100 is the most liberal, and 100 is the most conservative). FiveThirtyEight characterizes him as a "mainstream Democrat" and notes that his ideology score is very similar to that of Vice President Joe Biden. Three conservative groups—the American Conservative Union, the Club for Growth, and Heritage Action—gave Kaine zero percent ratings in the few years before 2016, while the liberal group Americans for Democratic Action gave Kaine a 90% rating in 2014. The New York Times wrote that "in hyper partisan Washington, he is often seen as a centrist" while also describing him as an "old-fashioned liberal...driven by Jesuit ideals."

Official portrait

Goodfield Personality Type 3.2 The Inquisitor

I'm on my way so get out of my way, if you be so kind

First Impression

Compassionate
Predictable
Deep dislike of injustice
People person
Family man
Not charismatic
Loyal person
A drinker (was or is)
A man who cares
Soft

Five reasons why this person is The Inquisitor Type 3.2

1. Eyebrow up
2. Shifting of jaws
3. Eyes closing, but not completely (distrust)
4. Difference between left & right side of mouth
5. Blocked breathing

Picture courtesy AP/Scott Applewhite

PERSONALITY CHARACTERISTICS

This Goodfield Personality Type has the following characterization:

- Intense
- Focused
- Distrusting
- Relentless questioner
- Power to influence
- Persuasive
- Attracted to power
- Comfortable in leadership positions
- Trustworthy
- Self-assured
- Calm in crises
- Reveling controversy
- Arrogant
- Tough
- Strong
- Determined
- Self-concept “winner”
- Often hostile
- History of risk taking
- Often intelligent and education
- Quintessential leader

COMMENTARY BASED ON PUBLIC PRESENTATIONS AND PSYCHOLOGICAL OBSERVATION

Senator Tim Kaine is a nice guy. He is approachable, caring, loyal, hates injustice and will do what he can to right a wrong. He is skeptical and a true believer at the same time. He is a fighter for the people. He is committed to his political stance and forgiving of those who don't see the world as he does. He has no problem showing the world his bias. He is a man of consistency not power. He is a consummate politician who feels comfortable in the role of fight for the underdog. He is a democrat through and through, and believes deeply in the party, and its positions on the majority of the issues. He is consistent not charismatic. Tim Kaine is a passionate man of the people. He wears his “heart on his sleeve” moreover, he is the quintessential fighter for the democratic cause. This is a man who prides himself in knowing the people from his State of Virginia. He is a good “Old boy” with a good old heart. He is a man of principals who takes injustice not just to himself, but to his constituents personally. He is an Irish Catholic who will cast no big shadow over the personality of Hillary Clinton. Kaine will serve as a loyal number two to Hillary Clinton. He will be supportive and work hard for her election as president.

He is a man of purpose more than passion. He is an old-fashioned likable person — the guy next door fighting for old-fashioned principles in an age of iPhones and ISIS. He's not charismatic, bombastic, pompous, pretentious or verbose.

Tim Kaine is the oil on Hillary Clinton's troubled waters. He is a reflection of good judgment and character she strives to put forward. He is the hopeful antidote to the hatred towards Hillary. Kaine is the answer to the questions about Clinton's good judgment regarding people and procedures.

He is a result of a carefully, sculptured, strategic decision designed to turn the key to the White House door once again for the former occupant. This time the boss. He is no fool, and is clever enough to realize that he is being used to this purpose. But I don't feel sorry for Senator Tim Kaine, he knows what he's doing. He's a systematic person, his political career is the proof — one step at a time, one step at a time.

The office of the vice president maybe just down the hall from the Oval Office, however, if the democrats win the election, for Kaine it may turn out to be a much longer walk then promised or expected. That office is however, always one heartbeat away.

Picture courtesy people.com

Last week I profiled some of the Republican Candidates.

Part 1: Governor Chris Christie and Former Speaker of the House Newt Gingrich <http://goo.gl/izhYks>

Part 2: Vice President candidate Mike R. Pence <http://goo.gl/5YrHa7>

Part 3: Dr. Ben Carson <http://goo.gl/krLk9n>

Part 4: Governor Ted Cruz <http://goo.gl/XURR7v>

Part 5: Donald Trump <http://goo.gl/lkHaEy>

This week some of the Democratic Candidates:

Part 1: Bernie Sanders <http://bit.ly/2aoGijZ>

Part 2: Former President Bill Clinton <http://bit.ly/2a89PH8>

For more articles and video's click here <http://goo.gl/jUjnt8>

Ref: Are They Crazy? The Ultimate Guide to the Candidate for America's Next President
(2015)

Prof. Barry A. Goodfield, Ph.D., DABFM
Available in paperback and e-book format

Wikipedia
News outlets

©July 25, 2016 Goodfield Institute LLC